The Pallman Strike, the Commonwealer Croze, and the Lawlenenens in the Indian Territory Recommendationato Cougress WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. - Three topics - the Pullman strike, the Commonwealers, and the Indian Territory troubles - claim particular attention in the annual report of Attorney-General Olney.

submitted to Congress to-day. "It is not germans to this report," he says, "to consider the origin or merits of the labor disturbance which has passed into history under the name of the 'Pullman strike.' The relation to it of the Department of Justice was in direct, and arose only when the railroads of the country became involved and the passage of the United States mails and the movements of inter-State commerce were interfered with. On the 28th of June last the First Assistant Postmaster-General informed the department that there was detention of the mails at Chicago, San Francisco, St. Paul, Sait Lake City, Port-land, Or., and Los Angeles, and requested immediate action for the relief of the mail service and for the punishment of all persons engaged in its obstruction. The following telegram was accordingly sent on that day to the United States Attorneys at the places named:

"See that the passage of regular trains carrying United States mails in the usual and ordinary way, as contemplated by act of Congress and directed by the Postmaster General, is not obstructed. Procure warrants or other available process from the United States courts against any and all persons engaged in such obstructions, and direct Marshal to execute the same by such number of deputies or such posse as

"Chicago being the centre of the trouble, and the loss of the very necessaries of life threatened, the most vigorous use of legal weapons at the command of the Government was justified.

* Accordingly the United States Attorneys at Chicago were directed to at once begin proceedings in equity in the United States Court against Debs and his associates and all others moting and participating in the strike, and promoting and participating in the strike, and if possible to procure injunctions against the defendants restraining them from all interference with trains carrying the United States mails or engaged in inter-State commerce. The jurisdiction of the court to entertain such a bill was thought to be plain, as well on general principles and under the unquestioned power of a court of equity to deal with a public noisance as under the provisions of the inter-State Commerce act of July 2, 1890. The result justified the policy adopted."

Mr. Olney follows the strike in its several phases, discusses the presence of troops to enforce the order of the courts, and concindes:

"The strike at Chicago, so far as it involved the obstruction of United States mails and the paralysis of inter-State commerce, was practically broken when the United States troops reached the city, and, being broken at Chicago, was in reality broken everywhere else. It was at once realized that it necessarily antagonized the laws of the United States, and therefore must fall unless the power behind it was stronger than the whole power of the Federal Government."

It is not usually considered fortunate for

It is not usually considered fortunate for property to be in the hands of receivers, but that fact made it easier for the United States Government to deal with the "Commonweal of Christ."

"This department," says the Attorney-General, "became involved because the railroad properties seized were in the hands of receivers appointed by the Federal courts, and because the courts at once issued decrees for the properties seized were in the hands of receivers appointed by the Federal courts, and because the courts at once issued decrees for the property and directed the Marshals to execute them. In very many instances the Marshals found themselves unable to execute such orders by any force of special deputies or any posse at their command. This inability was due to various causes—to the large numbers of the lawbreakers, to the local sympathy with them, to the sparsely settled communities traversed by the railroad lines implicated, and to the absence of any orcanized State militis, which, though not available for the enforcement of the orders of United States courts, might well have been used to repress organized robbery and depredation. However obvious the existence of these causes, in no case was it taken for granted that a Marshal would not be able to execute the processes of these causes, in no case was it taken for granted that a Marshal would not to use his best efforts to execute the processes of these causes, not only by his own representations, but, if the circumstances permitted, by the concurring testimony of the District Attorney and of the Judge issuing the writ. Upon such evidence being furnished, the matter was called to the attention of the President, with the request that the orders and processes of the court might be enforced by such military force as was necessary. The request was invariably acceled to, the troops being used in each case not as a posse comitatus under the ommand of the Marshal, but as an independent instrumentality acting under the immediate direction of the President, with the requ

the Indian Territory was called to the attention of Congress last year by the Attorney-General, and only a few weeks ago what he terms "rampant lawlessness" broke out again in the absence of any remedial legislation on the subject. As presenting the necessities for action better than he can, he cites the report of the Grand Jury for the Western district of Arkansas. It says, in part:

"The causes for a failure of a more prompt and efficient enforcement of the law in the Indian Territory lie with the laws themselves and the interpretation of those laws by the department at Washington.

"Two causes appear to us most prominent, viz.: (1) An utter absence of a proper understanding of the situation in the indian Territory on the part of the Congressional committees having appropriations for service in charge, by the Treasury and Law departments of the Government, and by the public generally; (2) a failure of the law to provide adequate pay for the service.

"The latter cause is the natural offspring of ernment, and by the public generally; (2) a failure of the law to provide adequate pay for the service.

"The latter cause is the natural offspring of the former, and the removal of the first will undoubtedly remedy the second, but until the real situation is understood and adequate pay for this service is provided no improvement in the enforcement of the law can or will be secured.

"The fees and emoluments provided by the law for the arrest and transportation of criminals are doubtless sufficient in the execution of the law for the arrest and transportation of communication by mail, telegraph, railroads, &c., are ample, where law and order is the rule instead of the exception; where the officers of the law have and feel the need of aid which in cases of necessity they are entitled to from every citizen of the country through which they pass, and whose duties rarely take them through a country not populous; but the conditions of the Indian country are exactly the reverse."

Figures are given in the report to prove that if a deputy marshal in search of a criminal travels 100 miles he receives in fees but $6.50, one-fourth of which goes to the marshal; and if he travels by resil that distance at 3 cents a mile, going and coming he is out of pocket $1.88.

Mr. Cliney quotes also from Judge Charles R. Stuart to the sume effect, the latter saving that "there is no place in the Union where a higher regard for law and order has been shown," in the absence of courts and all law for so many years.

The Attorney-General renews his recommenregard for law and order has been shown," in the absence of courts and all law for so many years.

The Attorney-General renews his recommendations made to Congress in April 1894, to settle the accounts of the Union Pacific Railroad with the Government, and declares the scheme set forth (the Hoadly scheme) was devised with the representatives of stocklinders and creditors, and probably would have been in working order now had (ongress then acted.

Of the United States claim against the Leland Stanford estate, he says, in part:

"The cialm involves complicated and streutously contested questions, both of law and of facts, of the merits of which it is impossible to form any absolutely reliable judgment in advance of a thorough judicial investigation, it was plainly the duty of this department, however, to see that the claim, whatever its merits or its value, was not prejudiced by the decease of Stanford and the administration of his estate in the State Probate Court."

The business methods and arduous labors of the members of the United States Supreme Court come in for a well-merited compliment, the Attorney-General stating that "at the close of its term for the year 1850 the court had 1,800 cases on its docket, of which 1,17 were cases previously docketed, while 0.31 had been docketed at that term. At the close of its term for the year 1850 the court had 1,800 cases on its docket man beared 1,214, of which 1,300 were clocketed during that term.

"I'mless some unforcessen cause arcests this progress, the Supreme Court in the course of a law year will be able to devote a reasonable amount of time to the Circuit Courts of Appeals, and the others."

PROF. BOTTA'S WILL.

Testamentary documents, consisting of a will and two codicils of the late Prof. Vincenzo Botta of the University of the City of New York, who died after a fall from a window, were filed in the Surrogate's office yesterday. The will names William Allen Butler and Frederick H. W. Downer as executors. It was executed on Sept. 13 and sets out with this statement:

'In accordance with the wishes of my deceased wife, Ann C. Botta, again and again expressed to me both before and after the date of her last will, and in conformity with our mutual understanding, which was to be carried out by the survivor, I make the following distribution of the undivided personal property out by the survivor, I make the following distribution of the undivided personal property which may be found in my house at the time of my death, which property was held in common by my said wife and myself.

Then follows about six pages of bequests of paintings, statuary, brica-brac, jewelry, and other household effects, which are given to relatives, friends, and institutions. Among these bequests were the gift to the University of the City of New York of his library and a bust of himself by his wife, who was a sculptor, which he wanted put into Carrara marble if it had not already been done. He gave some portraits to the same institution.

He bequeathed to the National Academy of Design several paintings and busts executed by Mrs. Hotta. To the Metropolitan Museum of Art he bequeathed a bust of Henry Clay, given by Clay personally to Mrs. Botta, and some portraits. The Historical Society was to get the official letters of the military career of Col. Gray, grandfather of Mrs. Botta. He provided that $50,000 of the residue should be used to carry out bequests provided for in his wife's will. A third of the residue of his estate was to go to the University of the City of New York to found a chair for a study of the history of the fine arts, which should be a memorial to his wife. A third was to go to his nephews Carlo and Andrea Tolco, lawyers, of italy, and a sixth to Mrs. Julia M. Lynch, a distant relative, and the other sixth to six friends.

All the bequests of the will seem to be swept away by a codicil executed Sept. 24, which reads:

"The legacles left by me are hereby revoked and cancelled, including the legacy to the University of the City of New York, the legacies to my nephews Carlo and Andrea Tolco, also the legacy to Mrs. Julia M. Lynch and the other persons therein named.

"To Mrs. Julia M. Lynch I leave and bequeath to the sixth to Mrs. Julia M. Lynch and the other persons therein named.

THE LAWYER LEFTTHE COURT ROOM Assistant District Attorney O'Hare Accused

Him of Trying to Extert Money. John Finn, lately of 123 East Third street, was put on trial yesterday in the General Sessions charged with bigamy in marrying Rosa F. Miller of 424 East Eleventh street on Jan. 3, 1891, when she was only about fifteen years of age, though his wife. Theresa Finn, whom he married on Nov. 13, 1880, was living at 627

Assistant District Attorney O'Hare said that t was only fair to the defendant to tell the jury that a lawyer who had been engaged by Mrs. that a lawyer who had been engaged by Mrs. Finn and Miss Miller to assist in the prosecution of Finn had asked Finn to pay Mrs. Finn $200, saying that she would testify, if this amount was paid to her, that she had not seen Finn in nine years. The lawyer to whom Mr. O'Hare had reference quitted the court room about this time. Mr. O'Hare sent a subpoma server after him, but the subpoma server did not overtake him.

CONTESTS HIS MOTHER'S WILL.

lames Thomson Nays a Sister Caused His James Thomson, a member of the Consolidated

Exchange, has brought a suit in the Supreme Court to set aside the will of his mother, Anna D. Thomson, who died in March, leaving an estate valued at $500,000.

In her will the mother cut the contestant off entirely, leaving all her property to her other children. The plaintiff alleges in his complaint children. The plaintiff alleges in his complaint that his mother was an invalid, and that the beneficiaries used undue influence to induce her to cut him off. His sister, Elizabeth, he charges was especially culpable in this respect.

He charges also that Elizabeth used her opportunity as nurse of the mother to poison the latter's mind against him, and that she told the mother he was dissipated and not fit to have any of her property. The result of this influence, he says, was his being cut off from any participation in the estate.

Local Business Troubles.

Eugene Arnheim, doing business as Marks Bros., manufacturer of cloth caps, at 22 and 24 West Third street, corner of Greene, one of the oldest houses in the trade, failed yesterday, and the Sheriff took charge of the place on exes cutions aggregating $20,380. The concern, it is said, formerly did the largest business in the cloth cap line in the city. The liabilities are reported to be from $90,000 to $100,000, and the nominal assets about $60,000. He owes the Chemical Hank $9,701. The failure is attributed to dull trade, depreciation in stock and machinery, inability to make collections, and to strikes. Mr. Arnheim was interested in the "Eagle Never-Kip Pants Company," at the same address.

Agric Never-top Pants Company," at the same address.

Hal Bell, lawyer, in Temple Court, made an assignment yesterday to Whilam W. Hulse of Bay Shore, without preference. He had been carrying too heavy a load of out-of-town real estate.

TUESDAY, Dec. 4. An unwieldy short interest in Sugar Refining and Chicago Gas was utilized to-day by the speculative friends of those stocks to advance the price of each nearly 2 ? cent. On the other hand, the showing of gross earnings by the St. Paul Company for November stimulated sales of that stock that left the price nearly a point lower than yesterday. These three stocks and C., B. and Quincy were the only ones in which the trading was at all active, and they were also the only ones that fluctu-ated widely. At times the entire market appeared to be at a standstill, for the trading n the few stocks mentioned was spasmodic. Reports were current that the next quarterly dividend on Sugar Refining and that on Chicago Gas would be reduced; but they had no effect upon the speculation, though the Street was furnished with reports that differences of opinion exist between the directors of these companies as to the amount of the next quarterly distribution of profits. The Street seemed to pay very little attention to Congress, probably ecause of the general impression that only routine business will be transacted at the present session. The closing of the market was quiet and irregular.
